

The Perfect Solution for Busy People during the Winter Months

Personal Concierge Services provide assistance with winter related issues will you rest.

Date Released: 02/15/2007

During the winter months the demands on life become much more difficult. Managing work and family, running errands, home maintenance, and a social life is stressful enough, but now we have to get it done in shorter days. Sure we still have 24 hours to work with but with less daylight and longer commutes the days definitely feel shorter. In addition, more is added to our to-do list, like snow removal, winterizing the home, and winter car maintenance.

Thanks to personal concierge companies our winters don't have to be as stressful. The purpose of these companies is to help those who have more to do than they have time for. This new industry developed in the mid-nineties due from a demand from people who are overworked, stressed out, and need help dealing with life so that they can spend their free time nurturing themselves and their families. Personal concierge companies do everything from arranging a special evening for a couple to waiting in line at the DMV to personal shopping.

Chocolates on MY Pillow, a Chicago based personal concierge company, acknowledges that winter is a great time for their business. During the cold time of the year, they receive more calls from their regular clients needing assistance and interested individuals with inquires thus they offers special winter promotions.

"Most people need a service like ours but are on the fence, so we offer discounts during the time of year that they need us most, giving them an extra push. Once our clients start enjoying the benefits of using our services, they tell us they wish they would have found us years ago," said Tisha Littlejohn, Chocolates on MY Pillow founder. Though during the winter months companies like Chocolates on MY Pillow receive many request to arranging snow removal and proper winterization of the home, it's important to note that the increase in business is mainly due to clients requesting errands to be run because they'd prefer not going out into the cold themselves. Why not hire someone else to fight though cold while you sit at home sipping hot chocolate in front of the fireplace?
